

Code of Conduct

Section 1 - Purpose

(1) The RMIT Code of Conduct (Code) provides guidance and defines the enforceable standards for our ways of working, ways of knowing and ways of being.

Section 2 - Overview

(2) The Code is about how RMIT staff work as a community of professionals, academics, education practitioners and researchers.

(3) RMIT is a values-based organisation, and all staff are expected to practice our RMIT core values of inclusion, imagination, integrity, courage, passion and impact. These values inspire staff and help them to make RMIT a positive force for social and environmental change, and guide how staff work together, wherever they are in the world.

Section 3 - Scope

(4) This policy covers the RMIT Group, which is RMIT University and its controlled entities (RMIT Europe, RMIT Online, RMIT University Pathways (RMIT UP), RMIT Vietnam).

(5) This policy applies to RMIT University Council members, Council committee members, controlled entity board members, employees (including employees who are also students), researchers, contractors and volunteers of the RMIT Group, both in Australia and overseas, subject to any relevant legislation (collectively referred to in this policy as staff).

Section 4 - Policy

(6) RMIT is a public university that stands on Aboriginal Country of the Kulin Nation. The Bundjil Statement helps us to understand what it means to be working respectfully on the Kulin biik biik (land) and working in accordance with the Statement when on place, wherever the business of RMIT is being conducted. The Code supports staff to develop their understanding of and connection to place and to actively embed Responsible Practice into their ways of working, ways of knowing and ways of being.

(7) The Code of Conduct guides staff to develop Responsible Practice by recognising, interpreting and acting upon multiple principles and values according to their work area and ways of working, and the context of their activities and relationships. These principles and values include cultural safety, inclusion, ethical responsibility, reciprocity and reconciliation, among others.

Ways of Working

(8) The ways of working at RMIT mean staff respect others, provide a child-safe environment, and promote RMIT goals and values.

(9) When working at RMIT and representing RMIT, all staff are guided by the RMIT values, strategic plan, this Code, RMIT policies and related documents.

(10) As individuals, staff:

- a. create and maintain a safe and healthy work environment that is free from bullying, harassment including sexual harassment, sexual harm, victimisation and unlawful discrimination
- b. behave in a respectful, courteous and professional manner in all contexts connected to the workplace
- c. use RMIT facilities and resources efficiently and carefully, with consciousness for social and environmental impacts
- d. act with care and due diligence when at work or conducting themselves in connection with the workplace
- e. maintain a collaborative and cooperative approach to working with others
- f. act within delegated authority and RMIT policies and procedures
- g. avoid and declare actual, perceived or potential conflict of interests
- h. act ethically to avoid engaging in any fraudulent or corrupt behaviour.

Ways of Knowing

(11) Our ways of knowing at RMIT mean there is the highest regard for intellectual inquiry and scholarship, and the responsible exercise of professional and academic judgement is valued. The Intellectual Freedom Policy describes the expectations and responsibilities of RMIT and staff in relation to intellectual freedom at RMIT.

(12) As individuals, staff:

- a. adhere to the ethical standards and legal requirements of their discipline or profession
- b. take responsibility for their own work and acknowledge the intellectual contribution of others
- c. actively engage in learning and remain open to dialogue and the sharing of ideas, theories and practices with others
- d. complete and act consistently with relevant compliance training modules
- e. make public comment in connection with RMIT only if authorised to do so
- f. access or use RMIT information and intellectual property (IP) only when lawfully authorised or there is a legitimate need to do so
- g. understand that the exercise of freedom of speech must be lawful and free from any discrimination, victimisation, hate speech or vilification.

Ways of Being

(13) Our ways of being at RMIT mean staff conduct themselves with integrity and commit to upholding the reputation of RMIT and the RMIT community.

(14) Staff:

- a. treat everyone with courtesy and respect
- b. act honestly and professionally in all work-related matters, and uphold ethical business practices
- c. are inclusive and provide equitable access to information and resources
- d. never attend or perform work when impaired by alcohol or drugs, whether illegal drugs or prescribed medications
- e. follow reasonable directions from managers or supervisors and exercise RMIT's core values in professional and personal conduct.

Responsibilities

(15) All staff are responsible for:

- a. complying with this Code
- b. reporting any possible corruption, mismanagement or waste of RMIT resources and functions to their manager or Central Complaints and Investigations via the Complaints Portal
- c. reporting any behaviours or activities that may constitute a breach of this Code to their manager, or via the Organisational Compliance Breach Form, or Central Complaints and Investigations via the Complaints Portal.

(16) Senior staff are expected to demonstrate leadership and model the highest standards of conduct and act on any reports in accordance with the relevant policy and any legal and procedural requirements.

(17) The Chief People Officer is responsible for:

- a. the implementation and management of the Code of Conduct, including the provision of training and awareness-raising on appropriate workplace behaviour and managing misconduct
- b. compliance monitoring and regular reporting of material breaches of the Code to the relevant governing body.

Compliance

(18) Alleged or actual breaches of the Code are handled in accordance with the applicable RMIT policy or procedure, enterprise agreement, applicable legislation, industrial instrument or contract. Where an alleged breach is not covered by an RMIT policy document, enterprise agreement, industrial instrument or contract, RMIT applies the principles of natural justice when investigating such a complaint.

(19) Failure to comply with the Code may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Review

(20) This policy is reviewed at least once every five years in accordance with the Policy Governance Framework.

Section 5 - Procedures and Resources

(21) Refer to the following documents which are established in accordance with this Code:

- a. Staff-Student Personal Relationships Procedure.
