

Health, Safety and Wellbeing Policy

Section 1 - Purpose

(1) To provide a healthy and safe working, research and learning environment that enhances wellbeing across the RMIT community.

Section 2 - Overview

(2) RMIT is committed to developing a values-based culture of care and seeks to enhance the health, safety and wellbeing of its community so they can thrive in study, work and life and minimises our impact on the natural environment. The values by which we are guided are:

- a. Inclusion - We respect each other through genuinely caring and looking out for everyone's health, safety and wellbeing both physically and mentally.
- b. Imagination - We are continually looking for ways to improve the health, safety and wellbeing of our community.
- c. Integrity - We hold ourselves and others to account for our responsibility to ensure a healthy and safe working, research and learning environment.
- d. Courage - We speak up when there is a health, safety or wellbeing concern. We report hazards and incidents, and we have the courage to call out unsafe behaviour in a respectful and caring manner.
- e. Passion - We deeply care about the work we do and the people we work and study with. Everyone is empowered to be a health, safety and wellbeing leader.
- f. Impact - we strive to create a community that is connected, healthy and safe, through empowering our people to create opportunities to have a positive impact on the wellbeing of everyone.

(3) RMIT maintains its occupational health and safety management system of procedures, processes, instructions and guidance within the RMIT Global Safety Model.

Section 3 - Scope

(4) This policy applies to all RMIT staff, students, researchers, contractors, visitors and volunteers globally.

(5) This policy is Group-wide and applies to all RMIT entities.

Section 4 - Policy

Principles

(6) RMIT ensures its staff, students and third parties are informed of and understand their responsibilities and demonstrate commitment to accountability and leadership in health, safety and wellbeing.

(7) RMIT has a clear hierarchy of governance forums which facilitates and promotes active participation and recognises the value of involving people in health, safety and wellbeing consultation. RMIT will demonstrate leadership by delivering innovative and effective communication across the Group.

(8) RMIT eliminates and reduces health, safety and wellbeing risks through effective hazard and risk management processes.

(9) RMIT ensures that environmental impacts are avoided and minimised wherever possible

(10) RMIT promotes a culture where all people actively manage health and safety risks through engaging with staff, students, researchers, and partner organisations to create safe working and learning environments and safe systems of work.

(11) RMIT provides proactive and supportive services and programs to promote wellbeing and mental health and minimises the risk of physical and psychological injuries and illness of our people.

(12) RMIT is continually improving the Global Safety Model by monitoring progress towards measurable objectives and targets aimed at eliminating illness and injury associated with RMIT activities.

(13) RMIT staff and students are trained to conduct their work, study, and research safely. Learning programs for health, safety and wellbeing are aligned to our values and industry expectations, creating a culture of care, and preparing health, safety and wellbeing leaders or advocates for the future.

(14) RMIT is committed to complying with all relevant health and safety legislation, standards, frameworks, and codes of practice and other requirements to which the RMIT subscribes.
